Climate

The Andean area of Ecuador has a very pleasant temperature all year. June is the end of the rainy season, called "invierno" in Spanish, since it tends to rain in the afternoons. Highs will typically be in the low 70's and in a cool evening the temperature can drop to the low 50's. In the Galapagos, the climate is quite warm though we are on water. It's best to dress in layers.

Clothing

The climate of Quito is in the mid 60's year round so it's best to bring summer attire with a light jacket. For the Galapagos Islands, do make sure that you bring a bathing suit and some water shoes like Teva sandals. Don't forget mosquito repellent for our visits to the various islands.

Altitude

All travelers to Ecuador must take into consideration that Quito and the rest of the areas visited are all above 8,000 feet above sea level. It is normal to feel short of breath and/or a headache the first day; drink plenty of liquids and do not overexert yourself. We'll be at sea level when we tour the Galapagos islands. Protect yourself with lots of sun block

Safety and Trip Enjoyment

Your Ecuador Galapagos Trip is planned in areas where the environment can sometimes lead to unpredictable conditions. Your safety is our first concern. It is important to remember that this trip will take place in wilderness environments, often far from hospital services. Engaging in activities like hiking, biking, white water rafting and horseback riding in natural environments entail certain inherent risks. We reserve the right to prohibit any traveler from continuing on a planned activity if, in our opinion, that traveler's actions pose a threat to the safety of himself/herself, others or to the wildlife; or if that traveler's actions or behaviors are seriously jeopardizing the enjoyment of the trip for others.
